

Can Then These Dry Bones Live

Ezekiel 37:3

F. Dan O'Neill

Can then these

Can then these dry bones live; can then these

Can then these dry bones live; can then these dry bones live;

This system contains the first three staves of the musical score. The top staff is a vocal line in treble clef with a common time signature. The middle and bottom staves are piano accompaniment in treble and bass clefs, respectively, with an 8-measure rest at the beginning. The lyrics are written below each staff.

dry bones live; can these dry bones live?

dry, dry, bones live? Can then these can then these dry bones live, O

This system contains the next three staves. The vocal line continues with a melodic phrase. The piano accompaniment features a bass line with a 4-measure rest. The lyrics continue below the staves.

Can then these dry bones live? Can then these dry bones live; can then these dry bones live, O son of man? Can son of man? Can then these dry bones live?

This system contains the final three staves of the score. The vocal line concludes with a final phrase. The piano accompaniment provides a harmonic foundation. The lyrics conclude below the staves.
